

3. g has no absolute maximum value on $[-2, 2]$. It takes on every positive real value less than 2, but does not take the value 2. It has absolute minimum value 0 on that interval, assuming this value at the three points $x = -2$, $x = -1$, and $x = 1$.