

Excerpts from this work may be reproduced by instructors for distribution on a not-for-profit basis for testing or instructional purposes only to students enrolled in courses for which the textbook has been adopted. Any other reproduction or translation of this work beyond that permitted by Sections 107 or 108 of the 1976 United States Copyright Act without the permission of the copyright owner is unlawful. Requests for permission or further information should be addressed to the Permission Department, John Wiley & Sons, Inc, 111 River Street, Hoboken, NJ 07030.

Chapter 2

2-1 through 2-20

Solutions are not furnished since many acceptable responses exist for each problem. It is not expected that the beginning student can handle these questions easily. The objective is to make the student think about the complete design problem and the various functions of the system. These problems are also intended for use in class discussions to enlarge the text material.