	It means that governmental power is split between the central, national authority and regional authorities. In Canada, the national authority is the federal government and the regional authorities at the provinces. Territories are provided with a form of limited self-government. Each authority is empowered to legislate within constitutionally defined jurisdictions and matters.

5. Briefly describe the origins of the common law system and the civil law system as they exist in Canada and the comparable and contrasting characteristics of each system of law.

ANS:

The Quebec civil law system originated from the French legal system and was brought to Quebec by the French when they colonized the region. The Canadian common law system is rooted in England's legal system, which was established in all provinces excluding Quebec by the British when they conquered and colonized the Canadian regions of North America.

The key principle of common law is that laws are interpreted and applied in decisions of the court known as judgments. Judgments become precedents, which form the body of case law that must be referred to and applied by every judge hearing a similar matter when making a legal determination in a similar dispute involving the same laws.

The key principle of the civil law system is that the Quebec legislature makes civil law, and those laws are codified or compiled in one source known as a Civil Code. The judges' task in the civil code system is to find the specific provision in the code that applies to the case at hand, and to apply it to resolve the dispute. Civil code judges do not refer to past decisions at all.

Both systems are designed to deliver constant, consistent justice.

6. Identify the nature of the question that Rothmans would use to challenge Saskatchewan's power wall ban under its Tobacco Control Act. Briefly explain how the government of Sasktachewan would be required to respond to such a challenge. Identify and briefly explain what actions the Supreme Court of Canada would take and the source of its authority to do so in the event that a Rothmans challenge was able to demonstrate that Saskatchewan's Tobacco Control Act violated a Charter provision and the provincial government failed to prove its legislation met the standard set by s. 1 of the Charter.

ANS:

A challenge of the Saskatchewan legislation banning use of the power wall to advertise cigarette brands by Rothmans would involve the question of whether the provincial legislation violated the Charter's guarantee of freedom of expression. The Saskatchewan government would respond by arguing that such a violation is justified under s. 1 of the Charter due to both the provincial and federal governments pressing and substantial purpose, which is to prevent young people from becoming addicted to the drugs contained in cigarettes.

If Rothmans were able to demonstrate that Saskatchewan's Tobacco Control Act violated a Charter provision and the government failed to prove that its legislation met the standard set by s. 1, the court would be entitled to strike down the province's legislation by declaring it to be of no force and effect because it is unconstitutional. The court's authority to order such a powerful remedy is set out s. 24 and s. 52 of the Charter.

7. Identify and briefly describe the statement made by Madam Justice Wilson with respect to the Supreme Court of Canada's view that in Canadian society, a liberal and democratic system of government is not just about majority rule

ANS:

Madam Justice Wilson of the Supreme Court of Canada stated that the Charter recognizes that an individual is not totally independent from society, nor just a body in an impersonal system where individual values, goals, and aspirations are subordinate to the collectivity. In Canada, the Charter leaves a wide range of activities and decisions open to legitimate government control while placing limits on the proper scope of that control. Thus, the rights guaranteed in the Charter erect around each individual an invisible fence over which the state will not be allowed to trespass. The role of the courts is to map out, piece by piece, the parameters of the fence.
