1) Which amendment to the U.S. Constitution states, "no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of the law"?

- A) First
- B) Fifth
- C) Tenth
- D) Thirteenth

Answer: B

Explanation: B) The Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution (ratified in 1791) states that "no person shall . . . be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of the law." Other laws as well as various court decisions made discrimination against minorities illegal by the early 1900s.

2) According to the Equal Pay Act of 1963, an employer may pay workers differently for all of the following reasons EXCEPT for _____.

- A) production quantity
- B) merit systems
- C) seniority
- D) gender

Answer: D

Explanation: D) The Equal Pay Act made it unlawful to discriminate in pay on the basis of sex when jobs involve equal work—equivalent skills, effort, and responsibility—and are performed under similar working conditions. However, differences in pay do not violate the act if the difference is based on a seniority system, a merit system, a system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production, or a differential based on any factor other than sex.

- A) national origin
- B) sexual orientation
- C) color
- D) religion

Answer: B

Explanation: B) Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act says an employer cannot discriminate based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Specifically, it states that it shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer. The federal Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA) would prohibit workplace discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity if Congress passes it.

- A) Executive Order 11375
- B) Equal Pay Act of 1963
- C) Executive Order 11246
- D) Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967

Answer: D

- A) publicly traded firms
- B) federal contractors
- C) small businesses
- D) private employers

Answer: B

Explanation: B) Under executive orders that U.S. presidents issued years ago, most employers who do business with the U.S. government have an obligation beyond that imposed by Title VII to refrain from employment discrimination. Executive Orders 11246 and 11375 do not just ban discrimination; they require that contractors take affirmative action to ensure equal employment opportunity. These orders also established the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP), which is responsible for ensuring the compliance of federal contracts.

- A) Equal Pay Act of 1963
- B) Vocational Rehabilitation Act
- C) Age Discrimination in Employment Act
- D) Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs

Answer: B

Explanation: B) The Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973 requires employers with federal contracts over $2,500 to take affirmative action for the employment of disabled persons. - _____.
- A) allow juries to determine age discrimination
 - B) fire older employees for insubordination
 - C) institute a minimum age for employees
 - D) require employees to retire at age 65

Answer: D

Explanation: D) The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (ADEA) makes it unlawful to discriminate against employees or applicants who are between 40 years of age or older, which ends most mandatory retirement.  - B) Duke Power Company intended to discriminate based on race
 - C) no business necessity existed for Duke Power Company
 - D) Griggs held a GED

- C) tokenism
- D) ethnocentrism

Answer: D

Explanation: D) Ethnocentrism is the tendency to view members of other social groups less favorably than one's own. Stereotyping is a process in which someone ascribes specific behavioral traits to individuals based on their apparent membership in a group. Discrimination means taking specific actions toward or against the person based on the person's group. Tokenism occurs when a company appoints a small group of women or minorities to high-profile positions, rather than more aggressively seeking full representation for that group.

- B) verbal conduct of a sexual nature which unreasonably interferes with job performance
- C) mutually consensual physical conduct of a sexual nature between co-workers
- D) requests for sexual favors made implicitly as a condition of employment

Answer: C

Explanation: C) EEOC guidelines define sexual harassment as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature that create an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work environment or interfere with work performance.

Requests for sexual favors that are used as the basis for employment decisions are also considered sexual harassment. Consensual sex between co-workers is not considered sexual harassment.

- B) the rejection of a supervisor's sexual advances led to a demotion
- C) a hostile environment was created by a co-worker's sexual conversation
- D) a hostile environment was created by a non-employee's sexual advances

Answer: A

Explanation: A) The U.S. Supreme Court held that sexual harassment law does not cover ordinary "intersexual flirtation." Someone can prove sexual harassment if rejecting a supervisor's sexual advances led to a demotion, firing, or altered work assignment. Sexual harassment can also be proven if a hostile work environment is created by the sexual conduct of supervisors, co-workers, or non-employees.

- A) quid pro quo
- B) disparate treatment
- C) hostile environment created by co-workers
- D) hostile environment created by non-employees

Answer: A

Explanation: A) Quid pro quo (something for something) is the most direct way to prove that rejecting a supervisor's advances adversely affected what the EEOC calls a "tangible employment action" such as hiring, firing, promotion, demotion, and/or work assignment. Quid pro quo would be the best option for Judy if she sues the firm for Will's actions.

- A) quid pro quo
- B) hostile environment created by supervisors
- C) hostile environment created by co-workers
- D) none of the above; Shelley is not a victim of sexual harassment

Answer: B

Explanation: B) As Shelley's supervisor, Gus created a hostile environment according to the EEOC. A claimant does not need to show that the harassment had tangible consequences such as demotion. Which of the following, if true, would best support the plaintiff's argument that Sanders is liable for sexual harassment?

- A) The HR department at Sanders has records of the plaintiff's initial complaints.
- B) Sanders lacks a management response system for handling sexual harassment complaints.
- C) Sanders recently lost a court case filed by former employees claiming disparate treatment.
- D) Exit interviews of outgoing Sanders employees include questions about sexual harassment.

Answer: B

Explanation: B) Employers can minimize their liability in sexual harassment claims by showing that they have a response system set up for handling sexual harassment complaints, so Sanders may be liable if it lacks a system. Firms that keep thorough records of complaints and address sexual harassment issues during exit interviews are able to show that they take reasonable care to prevent sexual harassment. Which of the following, if true, would most likely undermine the plaintiff's claim that Sanders is liable for the male employee's conduct?

- A) The male employee physically threatened the plaintiff on three occasions.
- B) The male employee made sexual advances towards the plaintiff on a daily basis.
- C) The plaintiff discussed her concerns about the male employee's conduct with female co-workers.
- D) The male employee was required by HR to participate in a sexual harassment awareness course.

Answer: D

Explanation: D) If the male employee was required to take a sexual harassment course, then that action shows that Sanders was making a reasonable attempt to stop the behavior. Threats and regular sexual advances by the male employee support the plaintiff's claim of a hostile work environment. Discussing concerns with employees is irrelevant to liability of the company.

The plaintiff asserts that she was the victim of numerous unwanted sexual advances from a male co-worker. The woman claims that Sanders' management condoned a hostile work environment and that the company is liable for the actions of the male employee.

All of the following are most likely relevant questions to address in this court case EXCEPT _____.

- A) Does Sanders have a record of employees who claim disparate treatment in the workplace?
- B) Did the plaintiff verbally state to her male co-worker that she found his behavior offensive?
- C) Did Sanders take reasonable care to prevent sexual harassment in the workplace?
- D) Is the male co-worker a U.S. citizen and is Sanders a U.S. entity?

Answer: A

Explanation: A) Disparate treatment relates to intentional discrimination, which is not directly important in this case. Firms decrease their liability in sexual harassment cases if they show that they have taken reasonable care to prevent sexual harassment through various actions, such as issuing a policy statement. The first step the woman should have taken is telling the co-worker that his actions were inappropriate in order to show that she followed the appropriate reporting procedures. Whether the co-worker is a U.S. citizen and Sanders is a U.S. entity are important in determining whether EEO laws are applicable.

- B) consulting an attorney
- C) filing a written report with the HR director
- D) filing a verbal complaint with the harasser's boss

Answer: D

46) According to the Americans with Disabilities Act, which of the following is considered a disability?

- A) homosexuality
- B) voyeurism
- C) compulsive gambling
- D) cosmetic disfigurement

Answer: D

Explanation: D) The ADA specifies conditions that it does not regard as disabilities, including homosexuality, bisexuality, voyeurism, compulsive gambling, pyromania, and certain disorders resulting from the current illegal use of drugs. The ADA provides that "impairment" includes any physiological disorder or condition, cosmetic disfigurement, or anatomical loss affecting one or more of several body systems, or any mental or psychological disorder.

- B) Employees failed to prove that a disability affected both daily living and job performance.
- C) Conservative judges were sympathetic towards small-business owners with disabilities.
- D) Attorneys failed to draw connections between Title VII and the ADA.

Answer: B

Explanation: B) Employers traditionally prevailed in 96% of federal circuit court ADA decisions. The Supreme Court said the disability must be central to the employee's daily living and not just a job. The ADAAA makes it easier for employees to show that their disabilities are limiting.

- B) The number of major life activities considered disabilities will be narrowed.
- C) Employers will be required to make fewer accommodations for workers with disabilities.
- D) Employers will be required to hire a specific percentage of disabled workers to be in compliance.

Answer: A

Explanation: A) The new ADAAA's basic effect will be to make it much easier for employees to show that their disabilities are limiting. For example, the new act makes it easier for an employee to show that his or her disability is influencing one of the employee's "major life activities." It does this by adding examples like reading, concentrating, thinking, sleeping, and communicating to the list of ADA major life activities.

- B) Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973
- C) Executive Orders 11246 and 11375
- D) Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act

Answer: D

Explanation: D) An employer can claim that the employment practice is a bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ) for performing the job according to Title VII. Title VII provides that "it should not be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to hire an employee . . . on the basis of religion, sex, or national origin in those certain instances where religion, sex, or national origin is a bona fide occupational qualification reasonably necessary to the normal operation of that particular business or enterprise."

- A) actor in a toothpaste commercial

Answer: A

Explanation: A) Gender may be a BFOQ for positions like actor, model, and restroom attendant requiring physical characteristics possessed by one sex. However, for most jobs today, it is difficult to claim that gender is a BFOQ. For example, gender is not a BFOQ for positions that require lifting heavy objects, such as with firefighters.

Answer: A

In addition, applicants must have 2,500 hours of experience in the air with at least 1,000 hours as the commanding pilot of a commercial airplane. A four-year college degree is also required. Jeff Sanchez, who is Hispanic, applied for a position as a pilot and was rejected because he has a degree from a two-year college and only 2,000 hours of flight experience. Jeff is suing Western Airlines for discriminatory hiring practices.

Which of the following, if true, best supports Western Airlines' defense?

- A) The total number of hours spent flying a commercial airline is a valid predictor of performance for most Western Airlines pilots.
- B) Recent experiences with college recruiting have led Western Airlines to increase the percentage of its minority pilots.
- C) Job capability as a Western Airlines pilot depends most heavily on age, gender, and previous job experiences.
- D) Western Airlines bases its selection tests and hiring practices on industry guidelines for commercial pilots.

Answer: A

Explanation: A) Western Airlines' best defense involves proving that its selection tests or other employment practices are valid predictors of performance on the job. Where the employer can establish such validity, the courts have generally supported using the test or other employment practice as a business necessity. In this example, the number of flight hours is a predictor of job performance. Recruiting, age, gender, and industry guidelines are less important factors.

Which of the following statements is most likely relevant to this court case against Western Airlines?

- A) Most pilots at Western Airlines belong to labor unions and are involved in collective bargaining arrangements detrimental to the industry.
- B) The Age Discrimination in Employment Act prevents firms, such as Western Airlines, from discriminating when age is a BFOQ.
- C) The job requirements for pilots at Western Airlines are a business necessity due to the human risks associated with hiring unqualified applicants.
- D) Western Airlines has been in operation for over 20 years and has never been sued for EEO violations.

Answer: C

Answer: The Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973 requires employers with federal contracts over $2,500 to take affirmative action for the employment of disabled persons. The act does not require that an unqualified person be hired. It does require that an employer take steps to accommodate a disabled worker unless doing so imposes an undue hardship on the employer. The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 prohibits employment discrimination against qualified disabled individuals, and it requires that employers make "reasonable accommodations" for physical or mental limitations, unless doing so imposes an "undue hardship" on the business. The employer can then use two defenses: the bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ) defense and the business necessity defense. Either can be used to justify an employment practice that has been shown to have an adverse impact on the members of a minority group.

98) What is the American with Disabilities Act? How does the ADA affect selection standards for employers?

Answer: The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 prohibits employment discrimination against qualified disabled individuals and requires that employers make "reasonable accommodations" for physical or mental limitations, unless doing so imposes an "undue hardship" on the business. Under the ADA, "Employers are generally prohibited from asking questions about applicants' medical history or requiring preemployment physical examinations." However, such questions and exams can be used once the job offer has been extended to determine that the applicant can safely perform the job.

99) What is the EEOC? Briefly explain the EEOC enforcement process.

Answer: Establishing the EEOC greatly enhanced the federal government's ability to enforce equal employment opportunity laws. The EEOC receives and investigates job discrimination complaints from aggrieved individuals. When it finds reasonable cause that the charges are justified, it attempts (through conciliation) to reach an agreement eliminating all aspects of the discrimination. The EEOC enforcement process begins with someone filing a discrimination claim. Next, the EEOC investigates the claim and either dismisses the charge or attempts to conciliate. Civil suits may occur if conciliation is unsuccessful.

100) In a brief essay, discuss Executive Orders 11246 and 11375 and their effect on affirmative action programs.

Answer: Under executive orders that U.S. presidents issued years ago, most employers who do business with the U.S. government have an obligation beyond that imposed by Title VII to refrain from employment discrimination. Executive Orders 11246 and 11375 do not just ban discrimination; they require that contractors take affirmative action to ensure equal employment opportunity. Executive Order 11246 (issued in 1965) requires federal contractors to take affirmative action to improve employment opportunities for women and racial minorities. It covers about 26 million workers—about 22% of the U.S. workforce.

101) What are the three forms of sexual harassment? Name and describe each one.

Answer: The three main ways an employee can prove sexual harassment are quid pro quo, hostile environment created by supervisors, or hostile environment created by co-workers or non-employees. Quid pro quo means that submission to sexual conduct is made a term or condition of employment or advancement. Even when no direct threats or promises are made in exchange for sexual advances, if an offensive work environment is created, sexual harassment has occurred. Further, advances do not have to be made by the person's supervisor in order to qualify as sexual harassment. An employee's co-worker or customers can cause the employer to be held responsible for sexual harassment. EEOC guidelines state that an employer is liable for the sexually harassing acts of its nonsupervisory employees if the employer knew or should have known of the harassing conduct.

102) How can an employer defend itself against sexual harassment liability? Name two methods.

Answer: An employer must show that it exercised reasonable care to prevent and correct promptly any sexually harassing behavior. Reasonable care can be shown through strong sexual harassment policies, training managers and employees regarding their responsibilities for complying with these policies, instituting reporting processes, investigating charges promptly, and taking corrective action promptly. Second, the employer can demonstrate that the plaintiff "unreasonably failed to take advantage of any preventive or corrective opportunities provided by the employer." The employee's failing to use formal organizational reporting systems satisfies the second component.

103) Managers serve a significant role in establishing the environment of a workplace. How can managers discourage sexual harassment? How can managers encourage inclusion in a diverse workforce?

Answer: Managers can actively discourage sexual harassment through a number of methods. First, managers should take all complaints about harassment seriously and issue a strong policy statement condemning such behavior. The policy should clearly describe the prohibited conduct, assure protection against retaliation, describe a complaint process that provides confidentiality, and provide accessible avenues of complaint and prompt, thorough, impartial investigation and corrective action. Managers should take steps to prevent sexual harassment from occurring, such as communicating to employees that the employer will not tolerate sexual harassment, and take immediate action when someone complains. In order to encourage an atmosphere of inclusion in a diverse workforce, managers should learn about other cultures and groups and facilitate interactions between employees from different backgrounds. Management diversity involves providing strong leadership, assessing the situation, providing diversity training and education, changing culture and management systems, and evaluating the diversity management program.

104) Compare and contrast disparate treatment and disparate impact.

Answer: Disparate treatment means intentional discrimination. It exists where an employer treats an individual differently because that individual is a member of a particular race, religion, gender, or ethnic group. Disparate impact means that an employer engages in an employment practice or policy that has a greater impact on the members of a protected group under Title VII than on other employees, regardless of intent. Disparate treatment requires finding intent to discriminate while disparate impact claims do not require proof of discriminatory intent.

105) What is a BFOQ? How do BFOQs affect recruitment practices?

Answer: Bona Fide Occupational Qualifications are requirements that an employee be of a certain religion, sex, or national origin where that is reasonably necessary to the organization's normal operation. When recruiting for a position, specifying gender typically violates federal laws unless sex is a BFOQ for the job advertised. Also, you cannot advertise in any way that suggests that applicants are being discriminated against because of their age. For example, you cannot advertise for a young man or woman.
