12) Quotas, boycotts, monetary barriers, and market barriers are examples of tariff barriers.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: A tariff is a tax imposed by a government on goods entering at its borders. It is used to encourage development of domestic industry and protect existing industry. Governments may establish such barriers to trade as tariffs and a variety of nontariff barriers including quotas, boycotts, monetary barriers, and market barriers.

17) Voluntary export restraints are common in the agricultural industry when an agreement is made between the importing and exporting countries for a restriction on the volume of exports.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: A voluntary export restraint (VER) is called voluntary because the exporting country sets the limits; however, it is generally imposed under the threat of stiffer quotas and tariffs being set by the importing country if a VER is not established. It is common in the textiles, clothing, steel, agriculture, and automobile industries.

30) As both special drawing rights (SDRs) and the U.S. dollar have lost their utility as the basic medium of financial exchange, most monetary statistics relate to gold and silver rather than dollars.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: As both gold and the U.S. dollar have lost their utility as the basic medium of financial exchange, most monetary statistics relate to SDRs rather than dollars. The SDR is in effect "paper gold" and represents an average base of value derived from the value of a group of major currencies.

- 31) After World War II, the United States led efforts to provide financial and industrial development assistance to rebuild Japan and channeled funds to foster economic growth in the underdeveloped world. These efforts were primarily aimed at
- A) halting the growth of Nazi Germany.
- B) dampening the spread of communism.
- C) dampening the spread of capitalism.
- D) building a stronger defense force.
- E) creating a worldwide trade bloc to counter the OPEC countries' clout.

Explanation: After World War II, as a means to dampen the spread of communism, the United States set out to infuse the ideal of capitalism throughout as much of the world as possible.

- B) grew significantly.
- C) failed.
- D) quickly matched the U.S. economy.
- E) faced high inflation rates.

Answer: B

Explanation: As these countries worked to gain economic independence, the financial assistance provided by the United States allowed the economies of most of the noncommunist world to grow and new markets were created.

- 33) What was the most apparent reciprocal impact of the foreign economic assistance given by the United States following World War II?
- A) European countries formed an alliance to counter the OPEC countries' clout.
- B) Outflow of labor to the recipient countries increased dramatically.
- C) All recipient countries appointed Americans to manage their central banks.
- D) Purchases of U.S. agricultural products, manufactured goods, and services by the recipient countries increased.
- E) Distribution of economic power and potential became more uneven.

Answer: D

Explanation: For every dollar the United States invested in the economic development and rebuilding of other countries after World War II, hundreds of dollars more returned in the form of purchases of U.S. agricultural products, manufactured goods, and services.

- 34) What factor was primarily responsible for the excess in production capacity in the United States after World War II?
- A) The United States government raised the tariffs on most imports by 60%.
- B) Many firms from other nations shifted their production facilities to the United States.
- C) Domestic demand was at a historic low and resulted in excess capacity.
- D) The returning military after World War II increased the labor supply in the United States.
- E) The implementation of the Marshall Plan dampened the overseas demand.

Answer: D

Explanation: The overseas demand created by the Marshall Plan and other programs was important to the U.S. economy because the vast manufacturing base built to supply World War II and the swelling labor supply of returning military created a production capacity well beyond domestic needs.

- 35) How did GATT prevent the repeat of the economic disaster that occurred after World War I?
- A) It provided short-term loans to struggling nations.
- B) It promoted dumping policies to allow stronger ties between member nations.
- C) It fostered isolationism for nations that were market leaders.
- D) It provided for a third party, the United Nations, to negotiate peace treaties.
- E) It provided a forum for member countries to negotiate a reduction of tariffs and other barriers to trade.

Answer: E

Explanation: Determined not to repeat the economic disaster that followed World War I, world leaders created the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), a forum for member countries to negotiate a reduction of tariffs and other barriers to trade.

- 36) Why did the Smoot-Hawley Act play a role in sending the world's economies into the Great Depression?
- A) It encouraged the majority of world economies to lower tariffs to imported goods.
- B) It raised U.S. tariffs on thousands of imported goods by more than 60 percent.
- C) It created an embargo on all agricultural products.
- D) It divided the United States into factions based on race.
- E) It forced independent countries to band together to stay economically viable.

Answer: B

Explanation: The Smoot-Hawley Act raised average U.S. tariffs on more than 20,000 imported goods to levels in excess of 60 percent and in retaliation 60 countries erected high tariff walls, and international trade stalled. A major worldwide recession catapulted the world's economies into the Great Depression.

- A) the creation of the Soviet Union and the higher tariffs on imports
- B) growing jingoistic nationalism and a negative population growth rate in major international markets
- C) resistance to direct investment and increasing competition in export markets
- D) increasing Chinese domination in the manufacturing sector and the falling dollar in global markets
- E) the decreased demand for U.S. goods in the global market and the growing influence of consumer rights advocacy in the home market

Explanation: At the close of the 1960s, U.S. multinational corporations (MNCs) were facing major challenges on two fronts: resistance to direct investment and increasing competition in export markets.

- A) communist countries.
- B) free trade economies.
- C) tier-II countries.
- D) developed countries.
- E) newly industrialized countries.

Answer: E

Explanation: The post-World War II era witnessed worldwide economic growth and countries once classified as less developed were reclassified as newly industrialized countries (NICs). Various NICs such as Brazil, Mexico, South Korea, Taiwan, Singapore, and Hong Kong experienced rapid industrialization.

- A) Third World countries have been excluded from this economic growth leading to stark imbalances in wealth.
- B) The European Union has become the center of world trade, taking the position away from the United States.
- C) The United States has continuously maintained the positive balance of trade it attained during the 1950s.
- D) Economic power and potential has become more evenly distributed among the countries of the world.
- E) SDRs and gold have lost their utility as the basic medium of financial exchange and most monetary statistics have started relating to the U.S. dollar.

Answer: D

Explanation: As a result of the expansionary trade measures led by the United States, economic power and potential has become more evenly distributed among countries than was the case when Servan-Schreiber warned Europe about U.S. multinational domination.

- B) The elimination of import taxes in the European countries
- C) The restructuring of U.S industries
- D) The decadence of communism
- E) The dissolution of colonial powers

Answer: A

Explanation: Servan-Schreiber's prediction did not come true for many reasons, but one of the more important was that American MNCs confronted a resurgence of competition from all over the world.

- A) funding the competitive developing nations
- B) restructuring its industries to be more "lean and mean"
- C) decreasing its exports and increasing its imports
- D) raising average U.S. tariffs on more than 20,000 imported goods by 60 percent
- E) provoking increased protectionism from other countries

Explanation: In the 1980s, the United States saw its competitive position in capital goods such as computers and machinery erode sharply. But U.S. industry got a wake-up call and responded by restructuring its industries, in essence, "getting lean and mean." By the late 1990s, the United States was once again holding its own in capital goods, particularly with trade surpluses in the high-tech category.

- A) North America
- B) Europe
- C) South America
- D) Asia
- E) Central America

Answer: D

Explanation: By the last decade of the 20th century, Asia was controlled and managed by Asians for the first time in 400 years. During the decades since World War II, the West set the patterns for trade, but increasingly, Asia will be a major force.

- A) supply chain management system.
- B) gross domestic product system.
- C) net domestic product payments.
- D) balance of payments.
- E) net national product systems.

Answer: D

Explanation: The system of accounts that records a nation's international financial transactions is called its balance of payments. A nation's balance-of-payments statement records all financial transactions between its residents and those of the rest of the world during a given period of time —usually one year.

- 50) What is a defining characteristic of a balance-of-payments statement?
- A) It is a record of the domestic transactions between the government of a country and the private companies in that country.
- B) It records all financial transactions between the residents of a country and those of the rest of the world.
- C) It records the trade policies of the member nations of the WTO.
- D) It is an annual record of the profitable foreign transactions made by a particular country.
- E) It is a financial statement in which the credits must exceed the debits.

Answer: B

Explanation: A nation's balance-of-payments statement records all financial transactions between its residents and those of the rest of the world during a given period of time—usually one year.

- A) payments to the United States for insurance
- B) the costs of goods imported
- C) spending by American tourists overseas
- D) new overseas investments
- E) the cost of foreign military

Answer: A

Explanation: On the plus side of the U.S. balance of payments are merchandise export sales; money spent by foreign tourists; payments to the United States for insurance, transportation, and similar services; payments of dividends and interest on investments abroad; return on capital invested abroad; new foreign investments in the United States; and foreign government payments to the United States.

The cellphone manufacturing industry has just started in the United Kingdom, and Rishi's company is one of the first to try its hand at cell-phone manufacturing. What argument is most likely to be used by Rishi to persuade his government to restrict the import of foreign cell phones from foreign companies?
- A) protection of an infant industry
- B) the need to keep money at home
- C) conservation of natural resources
- D) national defense
- E) maintenance of standard of living

- A) compound duty
- B) quota duty
- C) specific duty
- D) reciprocal duty
- E) ad valorem duty

Answer: E

Explanation: In the United States the types of customs duties used are classified as ad valorem duties, specific duties, and compound duty. Ad valorem duties are based on a percentage of the determined value of the imported goods.

- A) import credit discriminations
- B) export subsidies
- C) voluntary export restraints
- D) embargoes
- E) packaging, labeling, or marking standards

Answer: D

Explanation: To encourage development of domestic industry and protect existing industry, governments may establish such barriers to trade as U.S. tariffs and a variety of nontariff barriers and import policies including quotas, embargoes, import licensing requirements, minimum import price limits, and proportional restrictions of foreign to domestic goods. An embargo is a refusal to sell to a specific country.

- A) blocked
- B) spot
- C) embargo
- D) taxed
- E) quota

Answer: A

Explanation: Blocked currency is used as a political weapon or as a response to difficult balance-of-payments situations. In effect, blockage cuts off all importing or all importing above a certain level. Blockage is accomplished by refusing to allow an importer to exchange its national currency for the sellers' currency.

- A) minimize exposure in the importing country.
- B) reduce market competitiveness.
- C) avoid stiffer quotas being set by the importing country.
- D) take over local industries of the importing country.
- E) avoid criminal prosecution.

Explanation: A voluntary export restraint (VER) is called voluntary because the exporting country sets the limits; however, it is generally imposed under the threat of stiffer quotas and tariffs being set by the importing country if a VER is not established.

- A) overall tax.
- B) number of businesses eligible for imports.
- C) volume of exports.
- D) government's portion of the paid tariff.
- E) balance-of-payments statements.

Answer: C

Explanation: Similar to quotas are the voluntary export restraints (VERs) or orderly market agreements (OMAs). Common in textiles, clothing, steel, agriculture, and automobiles, the VER is an agreement between the importing country and the exporting country for a restriction on the volume of exports.

- A) an orderly market agreement.
- B) a quota.
- C) a monetary barrier.
- D) a voluntary export restraint.
- E) a boycott.

Answer: E

Explanation: A government boycott is an absolute restriction against the purchase and importation of certain goods and/or services from other countries. As the country mentioned in the scenario has absolutely restricted the importation of leather, it has issued a government boycott against leather.

What category of nontariff barriers primarily uses such quality issues as a trade barrier?
- A) quotas
- B) licenses
- C) embargoes
- D) boycotts
- E) standards

Answer: E

Explanation: Standards are sometimes used in an unduly stringent or discriminating way to restrict trade, but the sheer volume of regulations in this category is a problem in itself. Nontariff barriers of this category include standards to protect health, safety, and product quality. As the customs administration of the recipient country has used the quality of goods imported as a reason for restricting trade, it has used standards as a nontariff barrier.

- C) refusing to accept all the rules and regulations imposed by the WTO.
- D) using legal means to sue the WTO.
- E) opting out of membership in the WTO.

Answer: A

Explanation: Frustrated with the slow progress of the most recent round of WTO trade negotiations, several countries are negotiating bilateral trade agreements. For example, the United States has signed free trade agreements with twenty countries including Peru, Colombia, Panama, and South Korea.

- A) trade embargoes
- B) inflation and recession in Europe
- C) new taxing bodies governing trade
- D) inadequate monetary reserves and unstable currencies
- E) export quotas and higher tariffs

Answer: D

Explanation: Inadequate monetary reserves and unstable currencies are particularly vexing problems in global trade. So long as these conditions exist, world markets cannot develop and function as effectively as they should. To overcome these particular market barriers that plagued international trading before World War II, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) was formed. Difficulty: 2 Medium

- 97) What is a basic criticism of global financial institutions?
- A) They failed to focus on the aim of reducing inequalities between rich and poor countries.
- B) They failed to help the Asian countries substantially when they underwent a major financial crisis in the 1990s.
- C) They failed to respect the autonomy of member nations by deeming any bilateral agreements between members as illegal if made without their approval.
- D) They failed to foresee and counter the unintended effects of globalization like pollution, exploitation, and cultural extinction.
- E) They failed to suppress the terrorists who were responsible for the attack in London that coincided with the G8 summit.

Answer: D

Explanation: The basic complaint against the WTO, IMF, and others is the amalgam of unintended consequences of globalization: environmental concerns, worker exploitation and domestic job losses, cultural extinction, higher oil prices, and diminished sovereignty of nations. Difficulty: 2 Medium

100) What steps did the United States take following World War II to minimize the spread of communism around the world? Name at least one specific piece of legislation that was created.

Answer: After World War II, as a means to dampen the spread of communism, the United States set out to infuse the ideal of capitalism throughout as much of the world as possible. The Marshall Plan to assist in rebuilding Europe, financial and industrial development assistance to rebuild Japan, and funds channeled through the Agency for International Development were some of the measures taken by the United States to help strengthen the world economy. With the countries newly freed from colonial powers striving to gain economic independence and the financial assistance offered by the United States, most of the noncommunist world's economies grew, and new markets were created.

The benefits of the foreign economic assistance given by the United States flowed both ways. For every dollar the United States invested in the economic development and rebuilding of other countries after World War II, hundreds of dollars more returned in the form of purchases of U.S. agricultural products, manufactured goods, and services. In short, the United States helped make the world's economies stronger, which enabled them to buy more from us.

102) Why must the balance-of-payments record always be in balance? What does a balanced record signify?

Answer: The system of accounts that records a nation's international financial transactions is called its balance of payments. A balance of payments represents the difference between receipts from foreign countries on one side and payments to them on the other. As the balance-of-payments record is maintained on a double-entry bookkeeping system, it must always be in balance. As on an individual company's financial statement, the assets and liabilities or the credits and debits must offset each other. And like a company's statement, the fact that they balance does not mean a nation is in particularly good or poor financial condition. A balance of payments is a record of condition, not a determinant of condition.

103) Compare and contrast the three accounts of a balance-of-payments statement.

Answer: A balance-of-payments statement includes three accounts:

the current account—a record of all merchandise exports, imports, and services plus unilateral transfers of funds;

the capital account—a record of direct investment, portfolio investment, and short-term capital movements to and from countries; and the official reserves account—a record of exports and imports of gold, increases or decreases in foreign exchange, and increases or decreases in liabilities to foreign central banks.

Of the three, the current account is of primary interest to international business.

104) Describe the cost to the consumer when protectionist measures are in place.

Answer: To give you some idea of the cost to the consumer, consider the results of a recent study of 21 protected industries. The research showed that U.S. consumers pay about $70 billion per year in higher prices because of tariffs and other protective restrictions. On average, the cost to consumers for saving one job in these protected industries was $170,000, much higher than the wages and benefits of the average America manufacturing worker. Unfortunately, protectionism is politically popular, particularly during times of declining wages and/or high unemployment, but it rarely leads to renewed growth in a declining industry. And the jobs that are saved are saved at a very high cost, which constitutes a tax that consumers unknowingly pay.

106) Explain the difference between a quota and a licensing limit.

Answer: As a means of regulating the flow of exchange and the quantity of a particular imported commodity, countries often require import licenses. The fundamental difference between quotas and import licenses as a means of controlling imports is the greater flexibility of import licenses over quotas. Quotas permit importing until the quota is filled; licensing limits quantities on a case-by-case basis.

107) Describe the three areas covered by the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988 that are considered critical in improving U.S. trade.

Answer: The Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988 was designed to deal with trade deficits, protectionism, and the overall fairness of America's trading partners. The bill covers three areas considered critical in improving U.S. trade: market access, export expansion, and import relief.

Market Access: The issue of the openness of markets for U.S. goods is addressed as market access. The act gives the U.S. president authority to restrict sales of a country's products in the U.S. market if that country imposes unfair restrictions on U.S. products. Export Expansion: The trade act recognizes that some problems with U.S. export competitiveness stem from impediments on trade imposed by U.S. regulations and export disincentives. Export controls, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA), and export promotion were specifically addressed in the export expansion section of the act. Import Relief: Recognizing that foreign penetration of U.S. markets can cause serious competitive pressure, loss of market share, and, occasionally, severe financial harm, the import relief section of the act provides a menu of remedies for U.S. businesses adversely affected by imports.

108) Describe how the General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS) helped the United States reduce barriers to international trade in services.

Answer: An important objective of the United States in the Uruguay Round was to reduce or eliminate barriers to international trade in services. The General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS) was the first multilateral, legally enforceable agreement covering trade and investment in the services sector. It provides a legal basis for future negotiations aimed at eliminating barriers that discriminate against foreign services and deny them market access. For the first time, comprehensive multilateral disciplines and procedures covering trade and investment in services were established. Specific market-opening concessions from a wide range of individual countries were achieved, and provision was made for continued negotiations to liberalize telecommunications and financial services further.

109) Why was the International Monetary Fund (IMF) formed? How does the IMF deal with universally floating rates?

Answer: Inadequate monetary reserves and unstable currencies are particularly vexing problems in global trade. To overcome these particular market barriers that plagued international trading before World War II, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) was formed. Originally 29 countries signed the agreement; now 188 countries are members.

To cope with universally floating exchange rates, the IMF developed special drawing rights (SDRs). The SDR is in effect paper gold and represents an average base of value derived from the value of a group of major currencies. Rather than being denominated in the currency of any given country, trade contracts are frequently written in SDRs because they are much less susceptible to exchange-rate fluctuations.
