Chapter 1 Business Income, Deductions, and Accounting Methods

- 1) The Internal Revenue Code authorizes deductions for trade or business activities if the expenditure is "ordinary and necessary".
- 2) Business activities are distinguished from personal activities in that business activities are motivated by the pursuit of profits.
- 3) The phrase "ordinary and necessary" has been defined to mean that an expense must be essential and indispensable to the conduct of a business.
- 4) Reasonable in amount means that expenditures can be exorbitant as long as the activity is motivated by profit.
- 5) The test for whether an expenditure is reasonable in amount is whether the expenditure was for an "arm's length" amount.
- 6) Illegal bribes and kickbacks are not deductible as business expenses but fines imposed by a governmental unit are deductible as long as the fines are incurred in the ordinary course of business.
- 7) Although expenses associated with illegal activities are not deductible, political contributions can be deducted as long as the donation is not made to a candidate for public office.
- 8) When a taxpayer borrows money and invests the loan proceeds in municipal bonds, the interest paid by the taxpayer on the debt will not be deductible.
- 9) Employees cannot deduct the cost of uniforms if the uniforms are also appropriate for normal wear.
- 10) Only half the cost of a business meal is deductible even if the meal is associated with the active conduct of business.
- 11) Taxpayers must maintain written contemporaneous records of business purpose when entertaining clients in order to claim a deduction for the expenditures.
- 12) The domestic production activities deduction is a deduction for the incremental cost of manufacturing tangible assets in the United States.
- 13) Qualified production activity income for calculating the domestic production activities deduction is limited to taxable income for a business or modified AGI for an individual.
- 14) The domestic production activities deduction cannot exceed 50 percent of the wages paid to employees engaged in domestic manufacturing activities during the year.

- 15) A loss deduction from a casualty of a business asset is only available if the asset is completely destroyed.
- 16) All taxpayers must account for taxable income using a calendar year.
- 17) A short tax year can end on any day of any month other than December.
- 18) A fiscal tax year can end on the last day of any month other than December.
- 19) A business generally adopts a fiscal or calendar year by using that year end on the first tax return for the business.
- 20) Sole proprietorships must use the same tax year as the proprietor of the business.
- 21) Even a cash method taxpayer must consistently use accounting methods that "clearly reflect income" for tax purposes.
- 22) The 12-month rule allows taxpayers to deduct the entire amount of certain prepaid business expenses.
- 23) The all-events test for income determines the period in which income will be recognized for tax purposes.
- 24) The full-inclusion method requires cash basis taxpayers to include prepayments for goods or services into realized income.
